REVISED: March 2025

Tips on Finding a Recreation Program Just Right for YOU

Each one of us is unique! Therefore, the Recreation Council encourages individuals of all abilities, when choosing a leisure/recreation program or activity, to gather as much information about that program or activity as possible. Keep in mind your specific support needs and interests, too. It is helpful before contacting program staff, that you make a list of questions to ask. Be certain to give as much information about your own support needs, in order that the program staff can address your needs in advance to make your experience a successful one.

Here are some questions you might consider asking in addition to your own set of individualized questions:

- What can this program offer me as a participant?
- What is the philosophy of your organization? How long has the organization been in existence?
- How long has the program/activity been offered? Is the program/activity site accessible?
- What is the ratio of program staff to participants?
- When is the program/activity offered? What happens if I miss a session?
- What is the cost of the program/activity? Are there scholarships available, if needed?
- Is transportation provided or is the facility on a bus route?
- How are special needs or accommodations handled? (personal care, challenging behaviors, interpreters)
- What credentials, certifications, or qualifications do program staff hold?
- Does the program/activity staff receive training on the needs of persons with disabilities?
- Do I need my own equipment in order to participate in the program/activity?
- What should I wear or bring with me to this program?
- How, when and where do I register for this program/activity? Who helps me with the registration process?
- Is your program accredited and/or monitored for safety & programmatic standards?
- If applicable, are references available? If not, ask other family members or participants if they are aware of the program and its reputation.

Questions To Ask The Camp Director

(modified information from the American Camp Association)

When you are looking for a camp, every item you can think to ask about is important. Before you talk with a director, make a list of questions. Ask questions specific to your or your son/daughter's specific interests and support needs! If possible, try to visit the camp when it is in operation before you make your final selection. This will give you and/or your son/daughter the opportunity to observe the programs and philosophy of the camp in action. Here are some important items to consider when you meet with the camp staff.

*What is the background of the Director?
What is the camp's philosophy? How are special needs handled?
Is there transportation provided by the camp?
What type of assistance do the counselors provide?
What is the ratio of counselors to campers?
What are the counselors' ages? Are references available?
What training do the counselors receive?
What kind of background checks are done on camp staff?
What percentage of the staff return each year?
What percentage of campers return each year?
Is the Camp accredited by the American Camp Association?*

You can find a complete list of ACA Accredited Camps in the Guide to Accredited Camps.

MDWSA was created to provide a safe, fun and extremely memorable water ski experience for individuals with physical and developmental disabilities, visual impairments, and special needs.

www.mdwsa.org

PARTICIPANTS

Of course, without you we wouldn't be here. All disabilities are welcomed. If you have the desire, we will make it happen. We have plenty of adaptive water ski equipment to ensure that you have an amazing experience. It doesn't matter if you have never skied or if you are ready for the Paralympics or Special Olympics, we have the equipment you need! If you are not comfortable with the thought of skiing, or just don't want to ski, that's ok! Participants can also go on an inner tube ride or a boat ride.

VOLUNTEERS

We need LOTS of volunteers. Volunteering at Summer Splash is rewarding for everyone! Ask yourself if you are an experienced boat driver or water craft operator, water person, dry land person, paper work person, equipment person, food prep person, love to take pictures or maybe you just like to make new friends. If you answered "yes" to any of these, then we have a job for YOU! No matter what your skill level is... or isn't, we will find you something to do.
